HOW TO USE YOUR DAILY CALORIES WITH THESE MEAL TEMPLATES

Once you know your daily calorie target, the next step is to split it across your meals so you stay on track without guessing.

1. Divide Your Daily Calories by Your Number of Meals

If you're eating 3 meals a day, just take your total calories and divide by 3.

Example:

1800 calories/day → 600 calories per meal

1500 calories/day → 500 calories per meal

This gives you a clear limit for each meal so you don't go overboard.

2. Pick a Meal Template That Fits Your Calorie Limit

Open the templates in this guide and choose any meal you want to eat.

Each template already shows what the meal should include:

- Protein
- Carbs
- Fats
- Fiber

Once you know your per-meal calorie budget (like 500–600 calories), pick a template and follow the portion sizes as listed.

3. Add That Meal Into Your Tracking App

Now open HealthifyMe or MyFitnessPal:

- Search for the ingredients from your chosen template
- Add them to your diary
- Adjust the portion size slightly if needed
- Save it as a meal preset if you want to use it again

This takes less than a minute once you've done it the first time.

4. Don't Cross the Calorie Limit

Your app will instantly show you the total calories for that meal.

If it's too high:

- Reduce the carb portion slightly (rice/roti/oats)
- Use less oil
- Keep protein the same (never cut protein)

If it's lower, great!

You're safely within your target.

The idea is simple:

Stay within your per-meal calorie range → stay within your daily calories → stay on track for fat loss.

5. Repeat for Each Meal

Breakfast → choose a template → log it

Lunch → choose a template → log it

Dinner → choose a template → log it

Do this daily and you'll stay consistent without feeling restricted.
